SUMMER 2009

2009 Annual Holiday House Tour

Which Stedman is it?

If you like "who-dun-its" you'll really enjoy the "who-built-it" aspect of the tour PAST is throwing for our annual holiday house tour event!

It is a Stedman, but which one?

There have actually been four such surnames whose skills have embraced the architectural and homestead field, all with examples in the Palo Alto and Stanford area! Two were bothers and two were married to each other!

Find out about the individual Stedman's and whose designs are whose. Recognize the attributes of each and their lovely contributions to our community.

Our annual holiday house tour will be held on Sunday, December 13th. Please reserve the date - more information will follow!

President's Column

I'm pleased to report that PAST has had an active and successful year. As you know, we worked long and hard with the city on the renovation plans for the College Terrace Library. The library is closing for construction as we go to press. While PAST will not be holding a covenant for this property, we are satisfied that this building's status as one of our newest Category 2 historic structures gives us adequate recourse to appeal to the Historic Resources Board or City Council if we see anything untoward happening during the renovation process. I feel personally that the many hours we sat at the table with Public Works and the architects during the planning and design process helped produce a set of construction documents that address PAST's concerns for this community landmark.

Thanks to Natalie Loukianoff, Margaret Feuer, Janet Peacock, and Carolyn George for their work on Preservation Week activities. Our researchers identified over 30 one-hundred year-old houses in Palo Alto, and 15 on the Stanford Campus. It was gratifying to see how many families attended the Preservation Month ceremony to acknowledge their home's birthday.

We have made progress in solidifying our intention to hold covenants for private property owners who don't wish to see their beloved homes demolished once they sell, and hope to have an announcement in our next newsletter.

We continue to work with the Friends of Juana Briones in their effort to preserve Juana's residence on Old Adobe Road. The owners have appealed the decision not to let them demolish this special structure, and the Friends' attorney, Susan Brandt-Hawley, has submitted her response. A decision should be rendered by the end of the year. In the meantime, we continue to request that the city enforce its own laws against letting a building go to rack and ruin while the process continues.

Scott Smithwick spearheaded our efforts to preserve the view of Palo Alto High School's Haymarket Theater from Embarcadero Road, thus leaving the most historic portions of the school visible as an important gateway into the northern part of Palo Alto.

I would also like to recognize Scott for his efforts as PAST's newsletter editor for the last three years. He is stepping down from that role, but will continue on the board as a member of our Advocacy committee. Heartfelt thanks for a job well done!!

Our Holiday House Tour in December should be a real treat. Leslie McLaren has been delving into the mysteries of the Stedman name so familiar in architectural and real estate circles in Palo Alto. How were Morgan, Marcus, and James related, if at all? What did they build, when and where? We will explain it all! This will be a "not to be missed" tour, so save the date: December 13, 1-4 PM.

- Grace Hinton, President

Preservation Design Awards 2009

Residential Preservation Award 1013 Ramona

Presented to Theresa and Mark Rowland in recognition of their dedication to the preservation of their 1907 home at 1013 Ramona Street. This sensitive renovation preserves many of the home's historic features, including the narrow lapped siding, which had been hidden under stucco for many years, and contributes admirably to the character of the Professorville Historic District.

Presented to Cody Anderson Wasney Architects, Inc. for the renovation of 1013 Ramona Street, a 1907 house in the Professorville Historic District. This masterful renovation preserved the home's historic features, including the narrow lapped siding that had been hidden under stucco for many years.

Residential Preservation Remodeling Award 536 Gerona Road, Stanford

Presented to Debby and Bobby Robbins for their sensitive remodel to a significant Charles Sumner-designed home, 536 Gerona Road, on the Stanford Campus. They succeeded in preserving the integrity of the original 1929 house while adding significant space.

Presented to Bill Bocoock, AIA for his deft handling of a significant addition to a 1929 Charles Sumner home, 536 Gerona Road, on the Stanford Campus.

Residential Preservation Stewardship Award

775 Santa Ynez Street, Stanford

Presented to James Lock and Brian Kleis for their stewardship of an exceptional 1914 A.B. Clark home, 775 Santa Ynez Street, atop San Juan Hill on the Stanford Campus.

Commercial Preservation Award

236 Hamilton Avenue

Presented to Rob Fischer, Proprietor of Reposado, in recognition of his elegant contribution to historic preservation at 236 Hamilton Avenue. What was once a drive through feed and fuel warehouse of 1920 Mission Revival Style, has been transformed into a modern restaurant while preserving the historic storefront windows, timber ceiling and trusses, and original concrete walls.

Presented to CCS Architecture in recognition of the preservation and adaptive use of 236 Hamilton Avenue, now home to Reposado Restaurant. What was once a drive through feed and fuel warehouse of 1920 Mission Revival Style, has been transformed into a modern restaurant while preserving the historic storefront windows, timber ceiling and trusses, and original concrete walls.

Sunset Magazine and its Influence on California Architecture

The last lecture in the Museum of American Heritage's (MOAH) summer lecture series, sponsored by Cody Anderson Wasney Architects, is being presented by principals Monty Anderson and Chris Wasney will be held on Thursday, October 8th at 7pm at MOAH. See www.moah.org for more information.

New Board Member Spotlight

Leslie McLaren is a native Palo Alto. Educated in Colorado and New York, and with a nursing degree in hand, she returned to the bay area from North Carolina to raise her children. Retired now from the former Children's Hospital at Stanford, (Lucille Packard Children's Hospital) and a real estate career, she has pursued her interests in architecture and design. An admitted perpetual remodeler, her search for historic design has led to studies of and appreciation for various architectural styles. She is a member of the Palo Alto Women's Club and serves on the Board of the Palo Alto Garden Club. She has volunteered as a Stanford Health Library Associate and Pacific Art League Board Member. Her family has roots in Palo Alto, Aunt Shirley Cobb maintained a wonderful bookstore on University Avenue, and she feels a fond responsibility for helping to maintain as well as increase the appreciation for the history and character of the Palo Alto Stanford area.

Historic Inventory Document

PAST has recently obtained an inventory list of all buildings built in Palo Alto that is organized alphabetically by the architect or designer. Below is an excerpt of a page from that document.
